

Reading Challenge Printable

Hey there!

My name is Clare C. Marshall, author/publisher of Faery Ink Press, and I made this printable to help you keep track of your reading - hopefully, so you will read more!

Thanks for downloading this reading challenge printable. Here's how it works.

Whether you want to challenge yourself to read more, or you're following a specific reading challenge, you can use this to track your progress or inspire you to reach a specific goal.

To get the most out of this printable:

- Choose whether you are tracking books or pages, and choose an end-date for the challenge. Deadlines are important motivators!
- If you wish, choose a reward for reaching your reading goal.
- If you are following a specific challenge or want to read on a theme, write it down
- Write down why you want to complete this challenge. Do you want to increase your books read per year? Do you want a deeper understanding of a particular topic or POV? Understanding why you want to do something can be a powerful motivator.
- Jot down some titles you'd like to read during the challenge. You don't have to read them all – use it as a place to keep your ideas for future reads during the challenge period.
- Now, the fun bit: the checkboxes! If you have trouble making reading a habit, devote a chunk of your day or week to reading time. Decide the value of each checkbox. It could be 20 minutes, 30 minutes, an hour—whatever amount of time is reasonable for you.
- Set a timer and get reading! Every time you meet the value of your checkbox, feel the cool satisfaction of ticking it complete.

Use some or all of this printable to make reading a habit!

If this printable has been useful for you, send me an email at clare@faeryinkpress.com. I'd love to know!

I'm also thinking about developing a completely free reading challenge around creating more time to read and making reading a habit. If this is something that interests you, please let me know by signing up for my newsletter here.

Thanks so much – happy reading!
